Town Ends Year With Surplus

Coleman town council was elated to learn at its meeting January 9th that the town had completed the 1967 year's business and had come out with a healthy surplus. Exact figures have not yet been computed.

Council was also pleased at the fact that a total of under $4,000 had been spent by the town on gas and electric service for the past year, a figure which is well below the average of $14,000 estimated by the engineer if the job were contracted out.

The plant and home owners paid for the ditching, and filling in, while the town paid for the piping, widening and railway underpass.

Report indicated there were approximately 160 homes being serviced by the town's sewerage system, and this figure was considerably below expectations.

Council felt that action will have to be taken by July of 1969 to make hook-ups compulsory, as when the system was installed it was decided not to make it compulsory or anyone to hook-up for three years after installation.

Even in Rudy Szyniak reported that one work in clearing out the liner and channel of the Perce Creek must be done and some of the banks must be repaired before flooding and damage to property could occur. Action is to be taken on this.

Council was again pleased that all of the town's major projects have been completed as correspondence from the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation disclosed that interest rate on applications on and after January 1st, 1968, will be increased to 7 per cent. This increase will apply to applications even if the local by-laws to borrow money have been passed prior to this date.

The secretary, Cliff Noble, was advised to write to the provincial government to get fuller details on what procedure is necessary to get the government street and road paving grant.

Town work crews will install a number of new luminaire street lamps around town and the program for this summer calls for the installation of about 25 units to upgrade the system.

Fire Chief Henry Zak will be invited to attend the next meeting of council to present the brigade's budget and proposals for the coming year.

The existing problem of dogs running at large in town and creating a nuisance is to be left until spring when the town plan to take drastic action to rid the town of many strays and unleashed animals.

Councillor John Binda will bring the matter of cleaning up the graveyards and improving grounds this summer to the local UMWA who undertook this work as a Centennial project last year. Much of the work has been done.

SORRY ABOUT THAT, CHIEF

Wonderful World of Golf

CBC TV SUNDAY AFTERNOONS, COLOR

They'll never believe it back at the clubhouse, but, if it's ever going to happen, it will happen on Wonderful World of Golf (in color) starting Sunday, January 21st. Again CBC-TV will carry this exciting golf series which travels the four corners of the earth to bring viewers the best in golf and the most beautiful in golf scenery. This series will travel to such far-off places as Guatemala, the Virgin Islands, Spain and Switzerland. Some of the top golfers to be seen include Julius Bares, Billy Casper, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Roberto de Vincenzo and Christy O'Connor.

HERE'S MAX

Beau Brummel? The Scarlet Pimpernel? The face is familiar but... How about Max Ferguson? Yes, it's the inimitable Max who, in addition to his large repertoire of voices has, on occasion (such as this one for CBC-TV's And Then We Wrote...) changed his appearance, too. Max is heard every week-day morning on the CBC radio network taking satirical potshots at the day's headlines. And now he's also an author—the critically-acclaimed "And Now... Here's Max!", a history of Max versus the CBC... or vice-versa.

WOJECK RETURNS

A new 10-week series of Wojeck, CBC-TV's "fighting coroner", began on the network Tuesday, January 2nd, in color. In this still from a two-part episode, Swing Low Sweet Chariot, John Vojeck as Wojeck and Patricia Collins as Mary Wojeck, are at the scene of a fatal car crash. The two-part will begin the series, telecast dates January 2 and 9, 1968. The new series continues the exciting and at times controversial adventures of a big city coroner coping with the present-day problems of society.

Have you ever wondered...

... where medical aid would come from if your community should suffer a disaster?

Disasters can range from a nuclear attack to a multi-car highway accident, from a flood to an industrial explosion, but all have one thing in common: the immediate and vital need for medical supplies and equipment. To make sure that the required equipment and personnel are on hand when needed is the responsibility of the Emergency Health Services of the Alberta Department of Health. Twenty-two hundred bed emergency hospitals, packaged and ready to be transported and erected wherever needed, are being strategically stored in the province by this agency. These units are designed to replace bed and medical facilities which might be destroyed in a nuclear attack, and to supplement inadequate local facilities in the event of major civil disaster. Advanced Treatment Centres are also maintained by the Emergency Health Services to provide first life-saving techniques and patient-sorting following a nuclear attack. Each large city hospital has disaster teams which would assist local medical personnel if required during a large disaster outside Calgary and Edmonton. To further supplement emergency equipment available locally, twenty Casualty Collecting Units have been divided into thirds, providing 60 municipalities throughout the province with stretchers, blankets, first aid supplies, burn dressings and water bottles. The distribution and use of all this equipment, which is supplied by the federal government, is controlled by the Emergency Health Services, working with the Alberta Emergency Measures Organization.

... what type of recreation program would be best for your community?

There's no need to wonder about it; many specific answers are available through a Recreation Interests Inventory. The Recreation Branch of the Alberta Department of Youth, through the area consultants can provide guidance and assistance in this inventory. Any interested community can request that an inventory be carried out in their area and the Branch may assist in developing the questionnaires and in supplying the personnel to co-ordinate the project and to evaluate the answers, at the cost to the community of materials only. To further aid in setting up a comprehensive recreation service, the Branch assists in surveying the physical facilities available: 66 schools, community centres, campgrounds, sport fields, playgrounds as well as present programs. The final evaluation of the complete findings of the assessment is submitted to the local Recreation authority for their decision. The Recreation authority then may request further advice and, if necessary, financial assistance from the Recreation Branch.

... where an Alberta manufacturer can obtain the financial assistance required to buy the materials he needs at the most advantageous time and in the most economical quantity?

Qualified Alberta manufacturing firms, unable to obtain sufficient financial assistance from other sources, can apply to the Alberta Commercial Corporation for the funds they need to build up inventories of raw materials or standard component parts. The Corporation will purchase the material in quantity, arrange for storage and release it for cash payment as it is required. Funds are also made available to qualified manufacturers who require production equipment or land and buildings to enlarge their facilities. Firms applying for assistance from the Alberta Commercial Corporation also receive expert guidance and direction to those government agencies which can best advise them on such matters as markets and natural resources.

Partly because, today, the principles of engineering are being applied to the practice of agriculture. Alberta farmers have the assistance of trained agricultural engineers in producing the largest quantity of food with the least number of man hours. Working through the offices of District Agriculturists the Agricultural Engineering Branch of the Extension and Colleges Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture, offers help in such forms as plans for livestock buildings; advice on installation of private water systems and water treatment plants, sewage disposal and electrical installations, drainage of farm lands, gully filling and conservation. They aid in planning new farmsteads for maximum mechanization to reduce time and work in operations like feed handling, manure disposal and bulk storage of fertilizer. Tractor maintenance schools and field days held by the Branch also help teach those engineering ideas which have played a major role in making agriculture one of Alberta's most efficient industries.

... who provides "bed and board" for Alberta's entries at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto?

Alberta's animal representatives at the "Royal" live in style and comfort from the moment they become part of the province's display until they return home again, with feed and bedding provided by the Alberta Department of Agriculture. In addition, the Department co-ordinates with the Breed Association, the selection of animals to be entered, arranges with the railway for rolling stock, outfits the cars, correlates loading times and locations and pays freight costs, 75 per cent of which are reimbursed by the federal government. The province supplies assistance to exhibitors for this occasion because this is the only agricultural fair in Canada considered to be national in scope.

... why all Alberta movies are classified?

Classification of motion pictures shown in Alberta is a method of advising moviegoers throughout the province as to what kind of entertainment they can expect when they "go to the show". Advertising for any movie must bear the classification which has been assigned to it by the provincial Board of Censors so that everyone will be aware of the type of picture it is. There are three classifications: "Family" — movies to which even the youngest children are admitted unaccompanied; "Adult" — restricts admission to people over age 16 unless accompanied by a parent or bona fide guardian, usually due to frightening violent or sexual themes. Such films may be seen by children but an adult must be available to provide explanations if they are required. "Restricted Adult" — allows admission only to theatre-goers over age 18. This classification allows films with controversial themes to be seen by adults and warns patrons with special sensitivities that the subject matter may offend them. "Restricted Adult" films are not permitted at drive-in theatres.

Survivors' Benefits Begin in February

OTTAWA — Survivors' benefits under the Canada Pension Plan will first become payable in February, 1968. Benefits include a lump sum death benefit, a widow's pension, a disabled widow's pension, and benefits to the dependent children of a deceased contributor.

Details of this aspect of the Canada Pension Plan were made public recently by National Health and Welfare Minister MacEachern.

For a survivor to claim any of these benefits, the deceased person must have contributed to the Plan for at least three years. Any required contribution to the Plan is considered to be a contribution for a year. Thus, Canada Pension Plan survivors' benefits become payable in February, 1968, to the survivors of deceased persons who have made the required contributions for the years 1966 and 1967 and for the month of January, 1968, provided the contributor died in January, 1968, or had commenced to receive his retirement pension effective from February, 1968, and died at a later date.

As the retirement pensions under the Canada Pension Plan, survivors' benefits will be subject to annual adjustment to reflect variations in the cost of living.

Similar benefits are available under the Quebec Pension Plan, which parallels and is closely coordinated with the Canada Pension Plan.

The Department of National Health and Welfare, which administers the benefits of the Canada Pension Plan, has 126 offices across Canada to assist individuals in applying for benefits. Staff members are trained in all aspects of the Plan and are prepared to offer assistance and advice in individual cases.

Mr. MacEachern urged persons with questions about their eligibility for survivors' benefits to consult C.P.P. staff in the district and local Canada Pension Plan offices.

Amounts of widows' pensions and disabled widows' pensions depend on the average pensionable earnings of the contributor.

The pension for a widow under 65 will be $25.50 plus 37.5 per cent of the deceased contributor's retirement pension; a widow 65 or over will receive 60 per cent of her deceased husband's retirement pension. Widows' or disabled widows' pensions may be as much as $65 monthly. Lesser amounts are payable, of course, where the deceased contributor's earnings were less than the maximum pensionable earnings.

Dependent children of a deceased contributor will qualify for a benefit of $25.50 per month for each of the first four children and $12.75 for the fifth and each additional child.

A lump sum death benefit is also payable. This amounts to six times the monthly retirement pension of the deceased contributor, up to a maximum of $50.

If a contributor had not reached pensionable age at the time of his death, a retirement pension would be calculated as though he had in order to determine the amount of the widow's or disabled widow's pension and the death benefit.

The calculation of a widow's pension is dependent on a number of factors, including her age when widowed, whether she has dependent or disabled children or is disabled herself. Canada Pension Plan staff at district or local offices should be consulted for details in individual cases.

Mr. MacEachern said the start of payment of survivors' benefits will be drawn to the attention of contributors throughout Canada in a national advertising program in February.

New Regulations For Snow Toboggans

New regulations in the Alberta Gazette of December 30, 1967, indicate that on or after the 15th day of January, 1968, that when a power toboggan (miniature snow vehicle of the type known to the trade and public as "skidoo", "autotoboggan", "husky", and vehicles of like nature) is operated other than on the owner's property, a power toboggan shall be identified by an identification plate issued to the owner by the registrar.

The plate shall be fixed on the front of the vehicle in a practical visible place. Fee for the plate shall be $5.

The regulation also indicates that no person under the age of 14 years shall operate a power toboggan across a highway.

There are over 1,000,000 square feet of floor space in the General Motors of Canada plant at St. Therese West, Quebec, or almost 25 acres.

New hope

Life has suddenly found a meaning for Maria Regina Silva. The nine-year-old Brazilian girl has been formally "adopted" by Mr. & Mrs. Robert Stiefel through Foster Parents Plan (F.P.P.). Mrs. Stiefel, 35, of St. Louis, Mo., has more than 9,000 Canadian individuals and groups, the national Progressive Conservative Party, and the Canadian Red Cross, toward their new Foster Child's support and will correspond regularly with the child with translations supplied by the Plan. Maria, one of a family of eight who live in a two-room hut made of packed mud, is the first Brazilian child to be enrolled at the Plan's newly opened centre at Niteroi. The case worker who took the above picture describes her as "pitifully thin, dressed in her best, a puzzled look in her dark eyes, a lot of a smile on her lips." She is one of hundreds in this tragically neglected area for whom Plan hopes to find Canadian Foster Parents.

Tales of a Traveler

It is an often-told tale, among the older employees of the world's American Express organization, that one of the oddest strangers ever completed in a company, whose history is filled with a record of strange jobs, was that of a cruise director just before the start of World War II. He was taking a group of American Express tourists on a journey around the world.

Before he returned home to New York he'd had to cope with a civil war in Shanghai; a mill lioness who refused to go ashore except at night for fear she might be recognized; and an animal trainer who filled the ship's hold with a weird aggregation of birds, bees, monkeys and panthers. On the same cruise, a hot in the wild mountains of Japan, to which some of the passengers had gone on a visit, he and the tourists had to spend several days with the rugged mountaineers.

But he felt his greatest achievement was in not losing his mind trying to reason with a passenger who demanded a refund because he lost a day when the ship crossed the International Date Line.

Then there is the odd fact that the novice traveler can sometimes get a better rate of exchange for his American money abroad than the "know-it-all" experienced traveler who has all kinds of "angles." This smart alec will tell you about a Paris back street where furtive currency "operators" will give you more than the regular rate of exchange for your dollars. But the "average American" in Paris, using travelers' cheques, simply goes to regular retail shops and can get up to 15 or 20 per cent discount on merchandise as he buys—in fact, many shops display signs to this effect: "Ever try to spend foreign money? Take a 100 franc note into the shopping district of your town and see how fast you get making a purchase for getting change. No one will want to take a discount on the exchange rate. But go to any foreign country with American money in the form of 20- or 50-dollar travelers' cheques, and you'll be treated as 'foin de la realm'! You will gladly be given full exchange value at a foreign bank, hotel, restaurant, shop, a 100 on.

Pincher Creek, Phone 627-3130 or 627-4023

Last week I received in the mail a copy of a newspaper article written by another Home Economist who took the time to check the claims made by a company who recently ran a pot-and-pan promotion by mail. The price of the set was $179.95, but many "lucky" people received a gift certificate for $100.00, bringing the price down to $79.95. This is what she had to say:

"The pictures showing the set were extremely misleading. Firstly, not all the utensils shown were included and secondly, the lids and pans were shown twice or in different combinations.

When all the utensils were sorted out, the 18-pieces advertised included:

—Lid A which was shown once as a lid for a 2 1/2 quart saucepan.

—Bowl B which was shown twice — once as a casserole-double boiler, and a mixing bowl.

—Pan C which was shown once as a 2 1/2 quart saucepan.

—Lid D which was shown twice as a cover for Pan E which was shown twice as a 3 quart saucepan and as holding 4 quarts of potatoes.

—Cup-type Egg Poacher labelled F to J.

—Back to hold Egg Poachers

—Skillet L which was shown as part of the Egg Poacher unit, as a Skillet, and as part of a large Chicken Fryer.

—Lid M was shown as a cover for Pot N, which was shown for both a 1 1/2 quart saucepan and a utility pan.

—Lid O was shown as a cover for the Skillet and as a cover for the Dutch Oven.

—Lid P was shown two times as a cover for the Dutch Oven and a lid to make the skillet a large Chicken Fryer.

—Pan Q was shown as a Dutch Oven and Trivet R was shown once to fit the Skillet or Dutch Oven.

In all, 31 pieces were shown in the picture, but actually all you get is 18 pieces — 5 lids, 5 pans, 5 egg poaching cups, 1 skillet and 2 racks.

Also included was your "Free Bonus". You choose between a set of dishes — a 10 quart cooker or a coffee percolator. Let's figure the price of a bonus item at 50 more than $25.00 (and this is being generous). A comparable set of pots and pans could be purchased for $40.00 to $45.00. This means with the $79.95 you pay, you are losing at least $10.00 and probably more!

This information, coupled with the fact that you are dealing with an unknown company, with no service depot mentioned, and no way of knowing that they will stay in business long enough to honor their "guarantees" indicates how important it is to check very carefully the claims made by any sales promotion or door-to-door salesman.

Provincial Auctioneers "Chant"...

"The rhythmic chant of more than 300 Auctioneers from one end of the province to the other will be heard during Auction Charity Week, February 8th to 10th, in aid of Retarded Children.

The Alberta Auctioneers Association and its enthusiastic membership is embarking on an all-out effort to assist the Retarded Children in what will hopefully be an annual project.
